WOMAN'S DEPARTMENT

THE PROBLEM OF WOMAN. Editor Bloomfield Record:

The following was taken from lecture delivered before a meeting of fashionable women who had said they would open their parlors for a discussion of the legal status of women "if Helen Gardener would agree to be one of the speakers." A majority of those present of this occasion were captivated by Miss Gardener's lecture thus given, and fully endorsed all the points she made. Among other things she said :

Personally I do not recognize that rights. There are human rights and as the legitimate occupations or for their own benefit or happiness?

It covers entirely too much ground My friends, you do not realize that to meet the demands required of it. for a woman to stand before an aud-It is a non sequitur. ience at all, and speak upon any subject in the world is a full assertion of what they are pleased to think they are shocked at under the name of "woman's rights." Every time a woman earus a dollar in any occupation whatsoever coutside of the kitchen) she is a living exponent of woman's rights, unless she refrains from then all men incapacitated for such the all men incapacitated for such service would lose their votes. Are you aware that that would disfrancible with the equality of the sexes before the law (which by these nervous folks is called woman's rights) every dollar a woman earned belonged to her father or to her husband. She couldn't collect it. She didn't ownit. It was looked upon by the woman who was the "conservative" of that day as x ceedingly unwomanly for her to want to. She said: "Do you suppose I want to handle my own money! Never! Why, that would proclaim to."

It was to handle my own money! Never! Why, that would proclaim to.

It was to handle my own money! Never! Why, that would proclaim to.

democratic government at all, which does not apply absolutely and wholly to women also-not one! Because there has never been one single ob jection brought against woman's equality before the law with man, which is not equally valid against self-goverment of men, or else is based upon wholly unproven and untenable evasion or assumption; assumptions which have been met and which can be met with entire ease and disproven without using a great deal of brain-matter in the process. One of these was reset in its old frame in an article by Jeanette Gilder. She argued that there was too large an ignorant vote in New York now"-and so there may bebut upon what possible idea of justice is this means of self-protection and men and withheld from ignorant seomen?
